E-Verify Expired During Government Shutdown – What this Means for Employers

Due to the federal government shutdown E-Verify — the electronic employment eligibility verification program that compliments the Form I-9 — is unavailable. This means, among other things, that employers cannot access their E-Verify account during this time and until the federal government reopens. This will affect employers ability to enroll in E-Verify, create cases and address Tentative Non-Confirmations (TNCs).

In the meantime, employers must still complete the Form I-9 for all new hires. However, if you participate in E-Verify you will not be able to create a case and must do so when E-Verify is again available. To minimize the burden on both employers and employees, The Department of Homeland Security (DHS), which oversees the program, announced that:

- The three-day rule for creating E-Verify cases is suspended for cases affected by the unavailability of the service.
- The time period during which employees may resolve TNCs will be extended. The number of days E-Verify is not available will not count toward the days the employee has to begin the process of resolving their TNCs.
- Additional guidance regarding the three-day rule and time period to resolve TNC deadlines will be provided once operations resume.
- Federal contractors with the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) E-Verify clause should contact their contracting officer to inquire about extending federal contractor deadlines

Read more about the E-Verify policies implemented during the shutdown by clicking here. In addition, if you have any questions about compliance and how this will impact your organization, please contact your KatzAbosch representative.

These veterans also may apply at any time and do not have to meet the September 1 filing deadline. Certain unremarried surviving spouses may also be eligible for this exemption. Surviving spouses of military personnel killed in the line of duty may apply for an exemption.

Retirement Pay and Pension Tax Deductions and Exclusions

Military Retirement Pay Income Tax Deduction

If you receive or the spouse of a military retiree receives military retirement income, you will be able to subtract up to $10,000, with an increase to the first $15,000 for individuals who are at least 55 years old on the last day of the taxable year, of your military retirement income from your federal adjusted gross income before determining your Maryland tax. The retirement income must have been received as a result of any of the following military service:

- Induction into the U.S. Armed forces for training and service under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 or a subsequent Act of similar nature
- Membership in a reserve component of the U.S. armed forces
- Membership in an active component of the U.S. armed forces
- Membership in the Maryland National Guard

The benefit also applies to persons separated from active duty employment with the commissioned corps of the Public Health Service, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, or the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Maryland Pension Exclusion

If you are 65 or older or totally disabled (or your spouse is totally disabled), you may qualify for Maryland's maximum pension exclusion of $30,600 for tax year 2018 under the conditions described in Instruction 13 of the Maryland resident tax booklet. If you're eligible, you may be able to subtract some of your taxable pension and retirement annuity income from your federal adjusted gross income.

This subtraction applies only if:

- You were 65 or older or totally disabled, or your spouse was totally disabled, on the last day of the tax year; and
- You included on your federal return income received as a pension, annuity or endowment from an "employee retirement system." A traditional IRA, a Roth IRA, a simplified employee plan (SEP), a Keogh Plan or an ineligible deferred compensation plan does not qualify.

The Family Violence Program Howard County, is a comprehensive, regional array of services designed to move individuals impacted by trauma from crisis and vulnerability to safety, self-sufficiency, and stability. Our team of case managers works with individuals who have been affected by family violence, child abuse, elder abuse, gang violence, hate/bias crimes, sexual assault, military trauma, human trafficking, and gun violence. Services can include crisis intervention, case management, court accompaniment, legal advocacy, emergency and temporary shelter, referrals for counseling, and specialized services for children.

Our approach is rooted in supporting families as a whole. We at FCS believe the primary experiencer of trauma is not the only victim. Feelings of pain, fear, and isolation ripple through an individual's family and support system. It is only through a holistic approach with customized service options that the victim and their family, loved ones, and/or caregivers can profoundly heal.

We support members of our community and their loved ones who are victims of:

domestic violence	hate/bias crimes	gun violence
child abuse	sexual assault
elder abuse	military trauma
gang violence	sex trafficking
